

Current Status of Claim

1. (original) A fuel combustion saving apparatus capable of raising a combustion temperature by providing means for reducing air pressure in a combustion equipment of an internal combustion engine.